Lower Elwha Dental Clinic Updates

The dental clinic has a new dental director! On November 17th, Dr. Schick joined the dental team as our new dental director. Dr. Churchill is still here and will stay on as a staff dentist.

Dr. Schick was born and raised in Kodiak, Alaska, a rural island community in the Gulf of Alaska. He attended St. Olaf College in Minnesota, earning a biology degree with concentrations in biomedical science and Nordic heritage studies. Dr. Schick attended the University of Washington School of Dentistry as a member of the RIDE (Rural Initiatives in Dental Education) program, which focused on preparing students to provide dental care in rural communities similar to the one where he grew up. After graduating in 2020, Dr. Schick was excited to return to Alaska and accepted a position as a dental officer for the U.S. Coast Guard in Ketchikan. For the past four and a half years, Dr. Schick has provided full-scope dental care as Base Ketchikan's clinical dental director and led efforts to improve access to dental care for service members across southeast Alaska. His work included providing fillings, crowns, bridges, surgical and endodontic care, as well as deploying on various missions across Alaska and the U.S. to provide clinical care and meet with community partners—including tribal clinics that cared for Coast Guard patients in the more remote areas of rural southeast Alaska.

While Dr. Schick worked with the Coast Guard, his wife Mariah—whom he had met during a rural rotation during dental school—worked with local tribes as an occupational therapist for young children. Through her experiences and stories, Dr. Schick developed a great respect for tribal communities and their commitment to caring for their people. He knew then that he wanted to be part of that mission and dedicate his career to serving a tribal community. After completing his military service commitment, Dr. Schick and his wife chose to move to the Port Angeles area to be closer to their family. They are excited to put down roots here and experience everything the Olympic Peninsula has to offer. Dr. Schick looks forward to serving the community and continuing his passion for providing personalized, compassionate care and top quality dentistry for the people of the Lower Elwha tribe. When he's not working, Dr. Schick enjoys hiking, hunting, fishing, playing board games, and working on new projects around his house.

The Vision of the Elwha Klallam Tribe is to ensure that the Lower Elwha Klallam people can pass on their way of life to their children.

The Mission is to build a strong and healthy sovereign nation where Tribal members live their values and culture.

This means enhancing the lives of our people both physically and spiritually through social well-being and economic independence while preserving and enhancing our natural resources and cultural heritage.

Elwha Klallam Museum at the Carnegie

Clallam Indian Dog (Salish Wool Dog/Comox Dog)

Salish peoples, renowned for their weaving and knitting, did not raise sheep, and while mountain goat fur was also used to create wool textiles, mountain goats were wild, and thus their fur could only be collected from mountain goats leaving fur in the environment, such as from shedding, or collected from skins of hunted goats. The Salish Wool Dog was prized as a consistent, domesticated source of high-quality wool.

The dogs were sheared like sheep in May or June. It was said that the sheared fur was so thick you could pick up a corner and the whole fleece would hold together. The dog hair was frequently mixed with mountain goat wool, feathers, and plant fibers to change the yarn quality and to extend the supply of fiber.

Letter From the Vice-Chair Russ Hepfer

January 2025

Dear Lower Elwha Tribal Community,

Happy New Year! I hope we all made it through. I say that because I am composing this letter on December 12. That is early in the month, and it makes it hard to keep you posted on the monthly activities for December. Anyway...

I attended the second of two in-person meetings with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and EPA's Regional Tribal Operations Committee for Region 10 (RTOC). RTPC members are comprised of elected individuals from different tribes in different areas of these states. Due to travel restrictions EPA has to follow, the meetings were held in Seattle. EPA Region 10 geographically covers the states of Oregon, Idaho, Washington, and Alaska. There are 271 tribes that we represent. I represent Western Washington Tribes. We spent the week together discussing various environmental concerns and issues.

We listened to an elder from the Alaskan Village that recently had a typhoon wipe out their village. She was very brave and compassionate about what she and her village went through. They are still in shelters, and some have moved with relatives to Anchorage. It will take decades to make that village whole again. This is going to lose some culture and traditions because they aren't in their homelands. They can't fish and hunt when they have to move. I feel so bad for them.

At the time of this letter, we have one more round of atmospheric river rain coming. So far, our dike has held up. Thank the Lord and the Army Corps of Engineers. We fared really well as compared to across the pond. Towns had to be evacuated. I've been told we had six more feet before the river would spill over the dike. That sounds pretty good to me.

Northwest Indian Fisheries Commission (NWIFC) and the state are preparing for this year's round of North of Falcon (NoF) process. This process typically goes until March. I think the biggest issue is the chum fishery being proposed in Area 9. This fishery area is north of the ferry landing at Kingston. It's a mixed stock area for chum. Meaning that fish from all over the Salish Sea or Puget Sound get mixed up here before they head to their respective streams to spawn. A lot of streams have Chum listed as Endangered Species. Some tribes don't want to fish there. Elwha stayed out as we fished in the Hood Canal. It has been a big issue around the sound. I will have more on the fishery issues later as we are just kicking off meetings.

Sincerely,

Russell N. (RAZZ) Hepfer

From the Museum – January Newsletter

As we wrap up Native American Heritage Month, I want to extend a heartfelt thank-you to everyone who shared photos and memories. It has been a joy to see the moments, stories, and family pride you entrusted to us.

A quick note for anyone continuing to send photos: some images arrive a bit grainy or low-resolution, so here are a few easy tips to help keep your pictures clear and high-quality:

Tips for Saving and Sharing Clear Photos

Send photos in their original resolution whenever possible.

Avoid screenshots—they significantly reduce image quality.

Use AirDrop, email attachments, or cloud links rather than messaging apps, which often compress photos.

Share the original file instead of re-saving or re-uploading it multiple times.

Give your camera lens a quick clean before taking pictures—it really helps!

If you have hard-copy photos, feel free to bring them by the Museum. I'm happy to scan them and help preserve them in the best quality possible.

Museum Book Clubs – Open to All:

The Museum hosts two active book clubs:

Indigenous Book Club

General Book Club

Everyone is welcome to join either or both, depending on your interests.

We're currently reading The Berry Pickers, and our next meeting will be on January 8 at 5:00 PM at the Museum.

To be added to either book club list, please email Klallam.museum@elwha.org.

We're also open to community suggestions for future books, films, and cultural programs—your ideas help guide what we offer next.

Film Screenings & Community Input:

Our film screenings over the past few months have been wonderful opportunities to learn, reflect, and gather as a community. We plan to continue hosting them in the new year. If you have recommendations for films or events you'd like us to consider, please email Klallam.museum@elwha.org.

Stay Connected & Visit Us

You can stay up to date on all Museum events through our email announcements and our Facebook page.

And as always, if you haven't visited in a while—or want to bring family or friends—just call or email. I'd be happy to set aside time for your visit.

Dental Clinic Updates

We're excited to share some good news for our Elders! Thanks to our newly expanded dental team, we can now offer dedicated appointment slots reserved for Elwha Elders every day from 11:30 AM to 12:30 PM. These reserved slots are an extra option for elders and mean you won't have to wait as long or worry about availability. We hope this makes it easier to get the dental care you need. If you are an Elwha elder please give us a call at 360-452-6252, option #2 to schedule your appointment during these special hours.

Looking ahead to February, we're gearing up for Children's Dental Health Month! This is always a great time to remind everyone about the importance of starting dental care early. Dentists recommend that kids have their first visit by their first birthday, or within six months of getting that first tooth. We know it might seem early, but these first appointments help children get used to the dental office and let us make sure everything is developing the way it should.

We really want to see all our community's children at the clinic. Whether your child is coming in for their first visit or it's been a while since their last checkup, our team is ready to help. We work with kids every day and do our best to make visits comfortable and even fun. Don't wait—give us a call and let's get those appointments on the calendar!!

Thank you!

And the Lower Elwha Dental Team

Food as Medicine Series: Prediabetes

By Dawn Travelstead, MS, RD, CDCES

What is prediabetes? A condition that your body isn't using the insulin properly. Insulin is made by cells on your pancreas, but overtime poor eating habits, lack of exercise and weight gain, coupled with genetics the pancreas struggles to keep up with the demand. It is a warning sign that in 10-15 years if you don't change life-style habits, you're on the path to type 2 diabetes.

Why does prediabetes happen? The major risk factors include weight gain, being overweight, age > 45, family history, PCOS or if you had gestational diabetes.

Impact on the pancreas. When the blood sugars start to rise, the cells on your pancreas secrete insulin to keep the glucose levels good. Your pancreas is having to make more insulin to keep up and if you have gained weight, (especially in abdomen), now you can have a condition called insulin resistance. Additionally, you start to store excess insulin in your blood, called 'hyperinsulinemia'. (This can be tested with a blood test).

Diagnosis: When your A1C is between 5.7 and 6.4, this is prediabetes.

Can this be reversed? Yes, absolutely!!!

Prevention & Treatment:

Lose 5-7 % of body weight

Get 150 minutes of brisk activity weekly

Manage Stress

Avoid processed foods and high carbohydrate foods

For more information, email me or phone 360-912-1500

Klallam Strong: Nutrition & Diabetes Newsletter

- * Olive Oil
- * Did you know?

Blood Sugar Goals

- A1c <7
- 80-130 before a meal
- <180 for 1-2 hours after the beginning of the meal

Important Fact:

Time within range: if you are using a sensor, this refers to keeping the blood sugar between 70-180 70% of the time.

Did you Know?

About 70% of the US food supply qualifies as ultra-processed, and these items make up 55% of the foods Americans eat.

If you would like a nutrition session, please call me @ 360-912-1500.

Benefits of Extra Virgin Olive Oil (EVOO)

It is the polyphenol content that makes EVOO so powerful.

Brain Protection: Studies have shown that EVOO can help reduce the buildup of harmful plaque, reduce inflammation and help protect the brains protective barrier.

Heart Health: promotes healthy arteries and blood pressure, improves blood vessel function that could help reduce your risk of heart attack and strokes.

Fatty liver disease: helps reduce inflammation and improves how the body uses fat and insulin.

How to choose the right EVOO

Look for a dark glass bottle or metal container, should say "extra virgin" and look for the harvest date and quality seals.

Try to get 1 TBL of EVOO a day, best way...use on salad.

AG's Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and People Cold Case Unit Secures First Conviction

Dec. 17, 2025

A judge in Clallam County Superior Court sentenced Tina Marie Alcorn to more than 13 years in prison this week after she pleaded guilty to the murder of George David in 2016. The Attorney General's Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and People (MMIWP) Cold Case Investigations Unit helped to secure the conviction, its first since the unit was established in 2023.

"We were able to bring justice in this case because of the hard work of our cold case team in collaboration with local law enforcement," said AG Nick Brown. "I commend the hard work of the Port Angeles Police Department, who never gave up on this case, and thank the Clallam County Prosecutor for the support and collaboration from his office. It's impossible to describe the pain of losing a loved one. We hope that bringing accountability and closure in this case can provide some measure of comfort to George's family and friends."

George David was a renowned woodcarver, a resident of Neah Bay, and a member of the Tla-o-qui-aht First Nation of Vancouver Island, B.C. His masterworks are featured around the world, from the royal collections of Norway to the city hall of Kobe, Japan. He also carved two 36-foot canoes for Chief Sealth's gravesite in Suquamish. David, 65, was found deceased on March 28, 2016, in a friend's Port Angeles apartment. He had traveled from Neah Bay just days earlier, intending to visit family in British Columbia and attend a funeral.

"My dad was a master carver," said Maria David, George's daughter. "There are two half-finished puppets my dad was carving, that were to be used as a means of Indian Storytelling. But that never got to happen. I just have half-finished carvings, that never got to become puppets and tell their stories. Indian artwork is a way for us to tell our stories. And his stories can no longer be told, and we will never be able to see any of my dad's artwork again. Silver engraving, masks, totem poles, rattles, prints. It's all silent now. I am thankful to the Attorney General's Office and the Cold Case Unit for their work."

David's murder was initially investigated by the Port Angeles Police Department in 2016, and Alcorn was the primary suspect. However, there wasn't enough evidence to charge her. In 2023, the Washington State Legislature funded the MMIWP Cold Case Team, the first of its kind in the United States. In 2024, Port Angeles police requested the assistance of the new cold case team to solve this case. The cold case team supported the department in conducting additional investigation into evidence collected in 2016, including additional DNA analysis performed by the Washington State Patrol Crime Lab.

This investigation provided the evidence needed to arrest Alcorn in June 2025. The Attorney General's Office charged Alcorn with murder and ultimately secured her conviction. Alcorn pleaded guilty to second-degree murder along with a special sentencing enhancement for being armed with a deadly weapon during the crime.

The MMIWP Task Force has released a toolkit for families and friends of missing loved ones.

Washington's Attorney General serves the people and the state of Washington. As the state's largest law firm, the Attorney General's Office provides legal representation to every state agency, board, and commission in Washington. Additionally, the Office serves the people directly by enforcing consumer protection, civil rights, and environmental protection laws. The Office also prosecutes elder abuse, Medicaid fraud, and handles sexually violent predator cases in 38 of Washington's 39 counties. Visit www.atg.wa.gov to learn more.

A Very Special Thank You

To the Lower Elwha Heritage Center

A judge in Clallam County Superior Court sentenced Tina Marie Alcorn to more than 13 years in prison after she pleaded guilty to the murder of George David in 2016. The Attorney General's Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and People (MMIWP) Cold Case Unit helped to secure the conviction, its first since the unit was established in 2023.

"We were able to bring justice in this case because of the hard work of our cold case team and the cooperation of local law enforcement," said AG Nick Brown. "It's impossible to describe the pain of losing a loved one. We hope that bringing accountability and closure in this case can provide some measure of comfort to George's family and friends."

As a part of this court process, the family experienced a lot of emotions, and the Clallam County Courthouse provided limited private space. For this reason we reached out to the Heritage Center for a space we could use for longer periods of time away from the spotlights. They were more than gracious in opening their doors to our Cold Case Unit and the family countless times for the duration of the case against Tina Alcorn, usually without notice.

On December 15, 2025 the Heritage Center opened the doors again, as well as their kitchen so that we could provide a luncheon for the family and the Attorney General's Office Team that worked the case. This helped the family close a circle on nearly ten years of grief they were carrying. Words cannot adequately express the safe space they provided for the family since June of 2025. Not only offering the space, but doing so with such love and compassion.

A very big thank you also goes to Beatriz Arakawa from the Family Advocacy Program. Beatriz came to court, and she showed up, not just for the family, but for our unit. She showed up with heart and she made sure we were all cared for.

Thank you to Darrell Charles, Jr., our honorary member, who continually supports the unit's work and provided the artwork for our unit's logo. and to Chief Sam White for all his work on our MMIWP Task Force.

Lower Elwha Klallam People stand up for all, and the time we spent working this case has proven that beyond measure.

LEKT Natural Resources Department News

Update on Indian Creek

Chinook, Pink and Coho salmon returned and have spawned throughout Indian Creek, including in the vicinity of the spill site (see photo right). The NR Department continues to monitor fish use of the creek and is working with state, federal and Tribal trustees on assessment of the injuries to fish and other organisms and on a restoration project to offset the negative impacts from the spill.

For more information, use the QR code to visit Department of Ecology's website.

New sign!

Here at the Aldwell lakebed overlook

With the support of WCC, NPS and NOAA we installed an interpretive sign below the new Hwy 101 bridge to educate about the research and restoration led by LEKT since dam removal.

There's also a photo station so visitors can participate in monitoring!

Dry Creek 4th graders visit House of Salmon

On Dec. 2nd, students observed Coho egg harvest and learned about salmon anatomy. They will receive eggs in January to raise in their classrooms all year.

Thank you to hatchery staff Larry, Keith & Robert for sharing the important work you do!

Wildlife Cam Captures: Can you spot the Bobcats?

Bobcats live throughout the Elwha Valley, but are elusive and rarely seen. However, they can be easier to spot during these winter months, when they are more active during the day, searching for a mate, and the forests are bare or bright with snow.

THE COMMUNITY SHINES AT ANNUAL HOLIDAY BAZAAR AND "ELFTOPIA" CELEBRATION

Our Tribal Center was transformed into a hub of holiday spirit the second weekend of December, hosting a highly successful two-day Holiday Bazaar followed by a magical "Elftopia" celebration on Sunday, Dec. 14.

The festivities kicked off Friday, Dec. 12, and Saturday, Dec. 13, with a bustling bazaar that drew crowds eager to support local artisans and small businesses. The hall was filled with a diverse array of goods, including tribal blankets and apparel, shimmering crystals, and unique handmade crafts, as well as wrapping service by donation just outside the gymnasium doors. Attendees also enjoyed a variety of baked goods and what many described as "the best lemonade around" during the bazaar as well as complimentary hot apple cider and cocoa.

A cornerstone of the bazaar were the lunch fundraisers, which operated both days to fuel shoppers and raise support for a community memorial and the Shaker Church. The energy remained high with ongoing raffles sponsored by the Tribal Council, Tribal Administration and generous local vendors. A highlight of the weekend was the announcement of the grand prize: a special gift provided by Joe at The Warehouse, won by our very own Genie Black.

Organizers offered high praise to the Recreation Department staff.

The holiday cheer reached a peak on Sunday with "Elftopia." The atmosphere was described as warm with creative decorations designed by Harmony Arakawa and the Culture Department. The event offered toys and gifts for all community children, community bingo, and a festive feast.

Massive gratitude was extended to the "kitchen elves", Warren, Brandy, Gina, Bucky, Pebs, Wendy, Malena, Becca, Tammie, and Bridget. Thank you to Mel Gildow and along with our youth who served the community our beautiful brunch. Special recognition to the coordination team, including Samantha Acosta, Little G, Melaine Wheeler, Ryan and Jessica Charles-Elofson, Evelyn and Ralph Ellsworth, Deshus Barkley, Elaina Begay, Tonya Clark, and Keri and Leif Ellis, Delsen Lauderback, and Jon Hamilton.

The highlight of the morning occurred when "Christmas Angels" provided guests with silver bells and elf attire. Amidst the aroma of good food and cocoa, the "Elf on the Shelf" appeared for photos with our kids, followed by a surprise visit from Santa Claus himself. In a heartwarming moment, the two holiday icons shared a laugh and a hug, much to the delight of all the children.

Photographer Kristi Robison and a dedicated photo booth were on hand to capture these memories. As the weekend concluded, organizers expressed their gratitude to the community for a successful season of togetherness. To all who made the magic possible, thank you ever so much. Happy Holidays to all!
